

Japan-Austria Symposium on Improving Teaching Quality in Teacher Training Colleges

This symposium aims to improve the quality of education in teacher training colleges, to build domestic as well as overseas networks for teacher training, and to enhance the mobility of university students as well as teaching staff at home and abroad.

The symposium includes;

1. Open class of teacher training lectures of the Department of Human Development at University of Toyama followed by discussions among the teaching staff and students
2. Round table on efforts to improve the quality of education in teacher training universities and to establish future international teacher training system
3. Discussion on teacher training policies based on the actual conditions and characteristics of schools and communities

We would like to deepen the discussion from various viewpoints to improve the quality of teacher training and to build domestic and overseas networks.

We welcome your active participation.
